

Emergency Preparedness Workshops

AdLib, Inc. is a non-profit that focuses on empowering people with disabilities to access and manage benefits, services, and resources to live independently in the community. We are a consumer controlled, consumer directed service that assists people with disabilities to achieve a greater level of independence. We offer various services which take place in our offices, virtually, in the consumer's home or community.

Emergency Preparedness Workshops

Emergencies can happen at anytime and with our increasing reliance on digital technologies interruptions in service can present additional challenges.

This workshop will guide participants through planning for an emergency:

- what information do you need to have written down
- what supplies are essential for an emergency kit
- how would you meet your unique needs as a person with a disabilities

Participants will also receive an emergency kit which includes:

- four days of storable food and water (MRE style)
- first aid kit
- hygiene kit

Workshops will be held at AdLib and via Zoom:

- June 12th 1:30pm at AdLib
- June 21st 11am at AdLib—ASL interpretation provided
- June 12th 11am via Zoom
- June 24th 1:30pm via Zoom—ASL interpretation provided

Registration is required.
